Sara Rai, a renowned author writing in Hindi and English, was awarded the Coburg Rückert Prize in 2019 and went on a reading tour in Germany after receiving the prize. She comes from a prominent Indian family of artists. Her background forms the core of her book Raw Umber, which was recently translated into German by Dr. Johanna Hahn and Reinhold Schein and released by Draupadi publishing house, Heidelberg. The experienced literary critic Claudia Kramatschek, who serves on the advisory board of Literaturforum Indien e.V., will speak with Sara Rai about her memoirs and her literary work.
